Research Interests

After receiving my Bachelor degree in Business Administration and working in this field for around 5 years, I decided to change career and choose a field that has been always a dream to me, a field that sparks my interest which is social science. For that, I continued my higher education in Sociology (Master) and Social & Cultural Anthropology (PhD). My main research interest is related to understand human's ability to survive wars and conflicts in this world. How they are able to make sense of their challenging circumstances and to navigate through oppression. How they try to cope and deal with the injustice and its consequences.

My main research focus is on: Anthropology of Social Suffering, Anthropology of Art, Anthropology of Humour, Palestinian Studies, Popular and Folk art in Yemen, Refugee Studies.
